Christian Science Churches
Harmless living depends upon our acceptance and demonstration of Truth and Love, which destroy the inharmonies of sin and sickness, until the full scale of man's spiritual perfection is reached. This will be explained in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 4. The subject of the Lesson Sermon will be Unreality.

The Golden Text is from 1 Timothy (6:17) "Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be high-minded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy."

Lesson Sermon passages from the Bible (King James Version) include:
"Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world." (1 John 2:15, 16)

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include:
"The demands of God appeal to thought only; but the claims of mortality, and what are termed laws of nature, appertain to matter. Which, then, are we to accept as legitimate and capable of producing the highest human good? Either Spirit or matter is your model. If you try to have two models, then you practically have none. Like a pendulum in a clock, you will be thrown back and forth, striking the ribs of matter and swinging between the real and the unreal" (pp. 182, 360).

Collar the Clock!
PUTTING a collar on the average kitchen timepiece will brighten up the clock wall and make it both attractive and more useful.

Lay the clock on a piece of paper and trace its outline. Transfer the drawing by means of carbon paper, to a panel of Masonite Tempered Preswood one-eighth inch thick. The material should be large enough to allow for the sawing of a "collar" to fit around the clock.

The center of the "collar" may be cut out with a coping or similar-type saw. To get the blade started, insert it in a hole bored near and inside the line marking the outline of the clock.

"Shape of the clock will determine whether the outer edge of the 'collar' is round, square or hexagonal. The distance between the clock and the outer edge of the Preswood should range from four to six inches, depending on the size of the clock and the amount of wall space available.

Friction ordinarily will keep the "collar" in position, flat against the wall at the back of the clock, but if the sawing has been irregular and the border is loose, insert small pieces of wood to take up the slack.

Arranged in clockwise order around the clock's new border may be glued the leaves from a small calendar.

The ingenious homemaker can decorate the clock in various ways.

Farmers Reminded Of Wage-Hour Law Requirements

The employment of children under 16 years of age in the harvesting of crops or in other agricultural work, when they should be in school, is prohibited by the child-labor provisions of the Federal Wage and Hour Law (Fair Labor Standards Act).

According to Thomas O'Malley, Regional Director of the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, the agricultural child labor provisions were added to this law by Congress in 1949 to protect the health and educational opportunities of farm children.

He pointed out that such employment on farms where the crops are shipped out of the state is legal only during the hours when school is not in session or if the child is employed by its own parents or guardian.

Seeking the cooperation of farmers and parents in an effort to eliminate unlawful child labor, O'Malley pointed out that there is no restriction on the employment of children, regardless of age, when working on farms before or after school hours or on week ends or holidays.

The controlling factor in children is whether the schools are in session in the district where the child lives while employed.

To protect themselves from violation of the child labor provisions of the law, he urged prospective employers to have on file a proof-of-age certificate for each employed child of doubtful age.

Farm employers must also keep a record showing the full name, the date of birth and the local and permanent addresses for every minor child under 18 years of age who works on any day when school is in session.

Farmers should have their young workers obtain a proof-of-age certificate by applying to local school officials.

202 at Annual Scouters Round Up Near Morris, Sunday

Inside Scouters roundup 202. Two hundred-two scouters and their wives attended an Annual Scouters Roundup at the Boy Scout Reservation near Morris Sunday.

Plans and objectives of the national three year program and its application in the Rainbow Council were presented and discussed at the campfire. Hugh Boggs, Roundup Chairman, presided at the general campfire and Scout Commissioner Al Leveyering keynoted the plans and objectives for the coming year.

Council President Clarence Bergeron and Leadership Training Chairman Everett Wilken spoke briefly.

Music was provided and an Indian fire lighting ceremony was conducted by Scout Executive Frank Geiger, assisted by Explorer Scouts John Djerf, Herbert Hacker and Herbert Norton of Post 50, First Methodist Church of Lockport.

Philip Lieberman, assistant district commissioner of the Louis Joliet district, was present for having organized a new scout unit. The award was made by District Commissioner Edward Taylor.

Following the general campfire program Boy Scouters and Explorer Scouters separated for group campfires. Roy Rollins, Edward Murphy, and Harold Johnson were in charge of the Boy Scout campfire, Rex Eastering, Joseph Esposito and Gene Cruise were in charge of the Explorer campfire.

While the men discussed scouting around their campfires the women engaged in activities in the mess hall under the leadership of Mrs. Beggs and the wives of other committee members.

Activities along the rainbow trail occupied the afternoon. A each of the twenty trail posts, test was given in some scouting skills. For each test passed a colored string was awarded to be attached to the rainbow trail trophy.

A pioneer supper was served outdoors and consisted of barbequed ham, bean hole beans, potatoes, chips, tossed salad, ginger bread with sauce, apples, coffee and cider. Ward Sisler was committee in charge of food.

Promotion, registrations and receptions were in charge of Robert Leckrone, Donald Oldham, Hollie Hamilton and L. D. King.

Oblivious to the fame which has come to them as quadruplets, almost as rare a phenomenon with cows as with humans, the four Holsteins born on the ranch of Joaquin and Tony Pereira near Merced, California, turn their backs on the photographer as they tackle a project of much more interest.

The Pereira brothers attribute their success in bringing the coy calves through hazardous days of babyhood to use of a feed containing aureomycin, an antibiotic helpful in reducing normal calf mortality from the usual 20 per cent to practically zero.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"
By C. WILSON HARDER

Evidence mounts that small business, rather than huge combines, makes goods and services available to more people.

An example is contained in 600 page report of Senate Small Business Committee on independent airlines. This establishes, despite obstructive tactics of a powerful bureau, the Civil Aeronautics Board, independent enterprisers have made it possible for all America to fly.

To understand airline situation, bureaucratic terminology is all important. Terms are "certificated" and "irregular" airlines: 16 trunk lines, of which 4 are huge, plus 30 others operating largely inside state boundaries are certificated, or permitted by CAB to fly schedules.

There are also about 60 so-called "irregular" airlines, operating by CAB permission, but forbidden to maintain any regular schedules. Testimony reveals independents have been stopped for flying too often on Tuesdays, or some other days.

But testimony shows "irregulars" have not only been responsible for huge air travel increases; they have also shown majors how to make money.

In the postwar years of 1946, 1947, 1948 major airlines lost $22 million, desperately decreased bigger government subsidies.

In 1949, independent operators entering business, cut fares from around 6 cents per mile to 3 cents per mile or less. Reluctantly to meet competition, majors either started coach service, lowered fares, or increased scheduled National Federation of Independent Business

WHISPERING POWER
Now you can talk in your outboard boat while the throttle's wide open! New principles of sonic engineering that insulate the motor from the boat to eliminate vibration and greatly reduce noise are featured in the new Fleetwin Aquasonic for 1954 introduced by Evinrude Motors. Based on findings of research in making motors for military purposes during World War II, the new 7.5 horsepower Fleetwin makes the ride as smooth as a sailboat and reduces the sound to a purr.

THE man who invented the word "Utopia" knew what he was doing. Sir Thomas More first used the name as the title of a book in which he described the island of Utopia, a place where everything is perfect—climate, laws, schools, people, everything. But Sir Thomas was having his little joke, for "Utopia" comes from two Greek words meaning "No Place." He knew there is no real place in this world where everything is perfect; being a saint and a sensible man he suspected there never would be. No Christian has ever expected to see a perfect world this side of heaven.

Nevertheless, Sir Thomas More lived an active life, working hard to make the England of his day more like the Utopia of his dreams—or rather, more like the heaven of which Utopia might have been a suburb. For he was a Christian, and Christians, at their best, do plan for a better world. Christians at their worst do not. At their worst, Christians either accept the world as it is and imitate it, or even defend it against all critics; or they run away from it, shutting themselves away from it, leaving it to dirt, disease and the devil. (It might be asked, are such persons Christian at all? That is another question.) Almost all Christians plan on a small scale. Most of us live in a rather small world, and in the tiny world of our daily life we like to make plans that are Christian. In the home, for example: an unplanned home, higgledy-piggledy, with everything in a continual uproar, is not the kind of home we want to live in. Christian young people plan to make their marriage and their home as near like heaven as they can—and that takes planning and hard work too.

Widening Circles
Are we of today better Christians than our ancestors were? John Baillie asks the question in his "The Belief in Progress." His answer is No, if you mean by the question: Are Christians today more devoted, more saintly, than eight or eighteen centuries ago? If we have advanced beyond our forefathers, it is not in being better men personally. But John Baillie thinks, and it is a thought worth pondering, that we can and sometimes do have a wider view of the area of Christian action. Let us ask the question: Are we cleaner than our ancestors were? No, if you mean devotion to the ideal of "cleanliness next to Godliness." But while the citizen of 1800 was personally as clean as the soap of those days would permit, his kitchen and his streets and his water supply were not clean by our standards. Now planning for cleanliness includes such things as mosquito extermination and bonds for a sewer system. So it is with Christian planning. If you want to keep your home Christian you will need to do some thinking about all those wider circles that affect the home; schools, government, business life, war and peace.

Suppose We Don't Plan?
A Christian who wants a Christian home but will not join nor work in his local P.T.A. is missing one of his best chances to work toward the home he wants. If you want a Christian home and take no interest in politics, you may be your very neglect be turning over the control of your community to crooks and exposing your children to the kind of community that crooks operate. If you want a Christian home but think that government is no concern of yours, you may find your congressional man voting for measures and policies that produce or hasten war, and you know very well that war can break up homes faster and more painfully than any other thing unless it is liquor. We must never forget that the devil is planning all the time, and his henchmen are planning. If Christians do not do some counter-planning, we are fools. Furthermore and most important, we must remember that God has a plan for this world which he made and loves and has not forsaken. The Bible gives us the lines along which God's servants have always worked.

World Planning

Lesson for October 4, 1953

THE man who invented the word "Utopia" knew what he was doing. Sir Thomas More first used the name as the title of a book in which he described the island of Utopia, a place where everything is perfect—climate, laws, schools, people, everything. But Sir Thomas was having his little joke, for "Utopia" comes from two Greek words meaning "No Place." He knew there is no real place in this world where everything is perfect; being a saint and a sensible man he suspected there never would be. No Christian has ever expected to see a perfect world this side of heaven.

Why Christians Plan
Nevertheless, Sir Thomas More lived an active life, working hard to make the England of his day more like the Utopia of his dreams—or rather, more like the heaven of which Utopia might have been a suburb. For he was a Christian, and Christians, at their best, do plan for a better world. Christians at their worst do not. At their worst, Christians either accept the world as it is and imitate it, or even defend it against all critics; or they run away from it, shutting themselves away from it, leaving it to dirt, disease and the devil. (It might be asked, are such persons Christian at all? That is another question.) Almost all Christians plan on a small scale. Most of us live in a rather small world, and in the tiny world of our daily life we like to make plans that are Christian. In the home, for example: an unplanned home, higgledy-piggledy, with everything in a continual uproar, is not the kind of home we want to live in. Christian young people plan to make their marriage and their home as near like heaven as they can—and that takes planning and hard work too.

The Illinois scientists studied more than 5,000 male dental patients between the ages of 20 and 80. They found that almost half of the men who had reached the age of 45 either suffered from gum diseases or were completely toothless as a result of them. In adults under the age of 24, the figure was only five per cent.

Oral diseases such as gingivitis, pyorrhea, and cellulitis have been effectively checked with wide-range antibiotics. One report, made before the Dental Society of the State of New York, stated that terramycin was successful in treating over 90 per cent of more than 200 patients suffering from 26 different oral infections.

Of course the best way to insure good dental health is through abiding by these oft-repeated precepts: Brush your teeth after each meal, clean the crevices with dental floss, and see your dentist twice a year.

Illinois Boy Designers Win
WINNERS in the annual model car competition of the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild are James Fry (upper right), of Clinton, who took first state honors in the Junior Division (ages 12 through 15), and John A. Both boys' models went on to take regional honors and a chance to win a university scholarship in the national competition.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"
By C. WILSON HARDER
A step toward preservation of American free enterprise was presidential signature of the Small Business Act. This sets up the Small Business Administration empowered to make loans to independent business.

The measure, supported by independent business leaders, was piloted through Congress by Senator Edward J. Thye, Minn., chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee.

By October, the Small Business Administration should be operating, making loans to small business needing development funds not available elsewhere.

In this new agency, the small business loan functions of the expiring RFC, and the Small Defense Plants Corporation function to help small plants get a fair share of the defense work contracts, have been combined.

SBA, although authorized by law to have a maximum of $275,000,000 outstanding in business loans at one time, is opening shop with $55,000,000.

While Congress realized need for assistance to small business, it is waiting to see success of SBA operation before allocating the entire legal limit of funds.

Therefore, the success of SBA will depend to a great extent on how actively small businesses participate in the development of this new agency.

The need for a source of credit for small business was well expressed by the National Federation of Independent Business.

DENTAL HEALTH

by Science Features

Scientists agree that good dental health is an important factor in maintaining general well-being. Yet recent statistics compiled by the World Health Organization show that nearly 100 per cent of young people living in industrial areas suffer tooth decay.

In addition, the WHO survey showed that equal numbers of adults are afflicted by diseases of the gums as well. And, according to a report by three dental scientists at the University of Illinois, diseases of the gums are the chief cause of tooth loss, at least in men 35 years old and over.

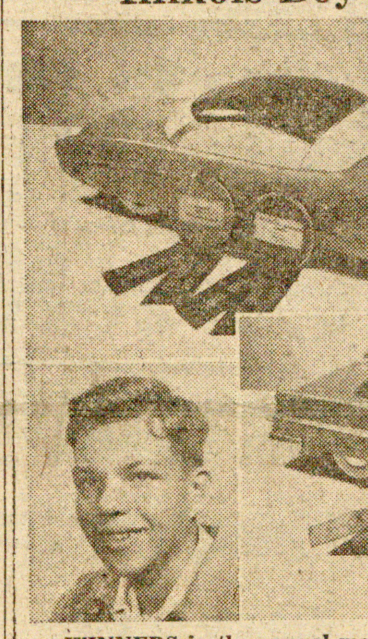

The Illinois scientists studied more than 5,000 male dental patients between the ages of 20 and 80. They found that almost half of the men who had reached the age of 45 either suffered from gum diseases or were completely toothless as a result of them. Vets Should Apply Now for Disability Severance Benefits

Illinois veterans who have been retired from military service since October 1, 1949 with disability severance pay and who have not filed claim for benefits with the Veterans Administration, were urged today to do so immediately to protect themselves or their dependent from government "restrictions."

Willard A. Manning, Administrator of the Illinois Veterans Commission pointed out that where severance pay is granted to veterans with less than 30 per cent disability, the VA deducts an equal amount from compensation to which the veteran or his dependents might become entitled.

As an example, Manning said a veteran who is rated as 20% disabled and files for benefits immediately after separation from service and is awarded $30 monthly may have to wait several years before his severance pay "indebtedness" is reduced to the point where he will start receiving a monthly compensation check.

The important thing is that the waiting period starts only when the veteran files for benefits. If he waits ten years before filing he would still have the restrictive waiting period to go through.

St. John's Guild Tours Merchandise Mart Sept. 24

Inside St. John's tour club. The world's largest commercial building, Chicago's famed Merchandise Mart, played host on Sept. 24 to St. John's Women's Guild of Mokena. They were escorted on a tour through the 93 acre expanse of the building whose showrooms house the most recent designs in furniture, rugs, lamps, appliances and other home furnishings from the mills and looms of America's leading manufacturers of name brands.

In addition, the group visited the Marts' widely heralded "Good Design" exhibition, a permanent display of the best new designs available on the American home furnishings market as selected by the Museum of Modern Art in New York.

The Merchandise Mart contains seven and one-half miles of corridors and is exceeded in size only by the Pentagon Bldg. in Washington. Twice yearly, for two week periods, buyers from across the world attend the International Home Furnishings Markets in the Merchandise Mart.

Mrs. Norman Bormet of Tinley Park was in charge of arrangements for the group.

Attention Wheat Growers

All wheat producers should give careful consideration to the acreage of wheat that they will soon be seeding, advises Mr. Carl M. Bormet, chairman of the local FMA committee.

Both allotments and marketing quotas are in effect for the 1954 wheat crop, and unless farmers are careful with their plantings they may lose out on price support protection and they may also be forced to pay a penalty for seeding too many acres, he warned.

Here are some important facts to keep in mind:

If the acres of wheat seeded on a farm are in excess of the wheat allotment, the producer is not eligible for price support on the wheat produced.

If more than 15 acres of wheat are seeded on a farm, and the acreage seeded is in excess of the allotment then a marketing quota penalty is incurred on the excess. The penalty is figured at 45 percent of the May 1, 1954 wheat parity price.

If 15 acres or less of wheat are seeded on any farm, there is no marketing quota penalty on such farm, even though the allotment is exceeded. Suppose the farm allotment is 9 acres. If more than 9 acres are seeded, the producer loses his eligibility for price support, but up to 15 acres can be seeded without marketing quota penalty. However, if more than 15 acres are seeded (say 16) then a marketing quota would be invoked on the excess acreage which in this case would be on 7 acres, the difference between the seeded acreage and the allotted acreage.

Farmers should also be careful in making seedings of wheat with other crops. If wheat is seeded in a mixture with rye or some other crop, the entire acreage, regardless of the wheat seed content, must be classified as wheat and charged against the allotment.

Average Census 104 Daily at Ingalls Hospital This Year

Inside Ingalls hospital, the average daily census of patients at the board of directors of Ingalls Memorial Hospital which was held at the hospital recently, administrator L. C. Mortrud reported that the average daily census to date this year is averaging 104 patients.

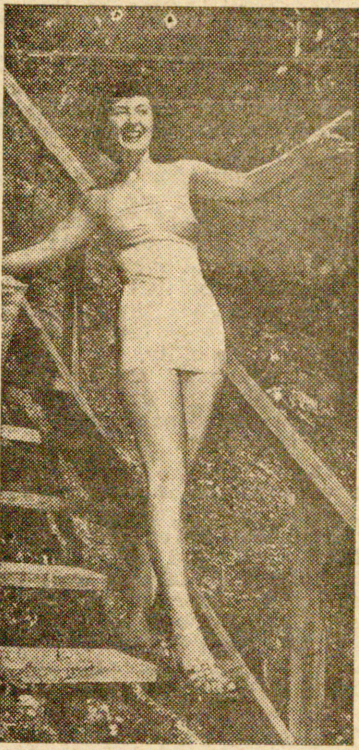

During August there were 629 hospitalized cases, of which 431 were adults, 55 children and 143 newborns. 923 outpatients were served and 154 emergency room cases were treated.

Days of hospital care during August totaled 2,995. There were 171 operations performed, 2,071 laboratory examinations and 927 x-ray examinations and 63 blood transfusions.

The dietary department served 12,370 meals. John Bardwick, Jr., president of the hospital, commented that the national trend toward shorter periods of hospitalization which is due to improved facilities and care is reflected at Ingalls with an average patient stay during August of 4.76 days.

There were six patients from Tinley Park and eight from Oak Forest.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By
CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

The letters S T O P appearing on a sign at a traffic intersection mean "stop," not just hesitate or see if you can beat the other fellow across the intersection. (Section 86c, Uniform Act Regulating Traffic.)

This may seem like an extremely elementary thing to mention in this series of Tips on Traffic Safety, but all too frequently the drivers of automobiles on through highways have their lives needlessly endangered by other drivers who fail to make the required stop.

All traffic regulation signs and signals are for your protection. When you are driving along a through traffic artery, you expect and depend upon cross traffic to grant you the right of way. It is only reasonable that you grant the right of way when you are driving along the secondary road.

Be especially careful at intersections where traffic is normally light. Don't let yourself become so familiar with an intersection that you come to expect there will be no other traffic there. These are the conditions where the unexpected usually happens.

International Dairy Show Oct. 10 to 17

Will county dairymen will be prominently represented at the first International Dairy Show which will be held in Chicago, October 10 to 17, officials of the show announced.

Frank Goodwin, of Wilmington, will exhibit in the purebred Brown Swiss classes of this breed at this new national dairy cattle event, as will Nancy and Robert Bovee, of Manhattan, and George Beutel, of Mokena.

The Big Dairy Show which is attracting exhibition herds from the continent's top breeders will be held in the recently air-conditioned International Amphitheatre, home of the famed International Live Stock Exposition, under whose management the dairy show will also be conducted.

Leading cowboys of the nation, and, in addition, Rex Allen, Arizona cowboy and screen star, "Alice in Dairyland", Wisconsin's dairy queen, are among the outstanding personalities appearing each day at the dairy show and championship rodeo.

The International rodeo is approved by the Rodeo Cowboys association as a championship point contest for five events; calf-roping, steer wrestling, saddle bronc-riding, bareback-riding and Brahma bull-riding.

They will compete for $17,000 in cash prizes as well as for points counting toward the year's final championships in each event. Leo Cremer, known throughout the country as "Mr. Rodeo", will supply the stock for the contests from his 100,000 acre ranch near Big Timber, Montana.

NEW MACHINE CUTS COSTS

A machine which rips up deteriorated asphalt pavements and uses the old material to lay down a new pavement simultaneously has been developed by the joint efforts of an oil company and an allied firm. The mechanical monster permits roads to be rebuilt speedily and is expected to save up to 50 percent in highway repair costs. The broken up pavement which formerly was hauled away and discarded, is pulverized and mixed with a special asphalt softener developed by the oil company. Thus, not only are materials salvaged but inconvenience for motorists is reduced.

CALLING FOR MORE RECIPES

A gratifying response was had to the item we ran in last week's issue calling for favorite recipes. But before we start publishing these recipes we want an accumulation to act as a backlog. So we take this opportunity to remind readers to keep this matter in mind and send in their favorite recipe, soon, so this interesting feature can be started.
The name of the person submitting the recipe must accompany it, with the understanding that the name will be published with the recipe. Recipes not published cannot be returned.
Every housewife has at least one favorite recipe, or one that is a prime favorite with her husband. That is the recipe we want for publication. The recipe can be taken out of a cookbook or household magazine. I need not be original with the sender.
However, those of home origin are especially welcome.

Under The Cross Of Malta

A good attendance of members were present at our meeting last Thursday evening. Past Commander Don Neal of Lockport was present whom we all enjoy seeing. Don is a busy man and he says he will try and come soon again.
Well folks you can be sure of a Fish Fry every Friday evening, commencing 6 p.m. We will do our best to please you.
Commander Hurley appointed a committee to draw up new club by laws, which will be tentative until finally approved by the membership.
Wm. Martin Post will sponsor a Halloween masquerade dance Oct. 31. Prizes will be awarded and the same fine band we had at the last dance will delight you.
We will also put on our annual Halloween party for all the school children, more details later.
Comrade Fred Hentsch is in Hines hospital for a check up and we are told that he will be home again in a few days.
A good crowd enjoyed the fine ham dinner Sunday, which was served by the Ladies Auxiliary for the benefit of the Building Fund. The Post is greatly indebted to the Auxiliary, especially to President Mildred McMillan for the hard work and planning it took to put on an affair of this kind. Thanks Millred, and all who helped.
Next regular Post meeting Thursday evening, Oct. 8.—Gler C. Peterson, Pub.

Hogs are more profitable this year, but in 1952 they paid the lowest returns in 20 years.
Yet, according to 612 records kept in the Farm Bureau Farm Management Service, efficient farmers still made money last year. The 113 least efficient herd actually returned only 92 cents for every dollar spent for feed.

The problem of a left-handed child in a right-handed world is one which has occupied psychologists—and parents—for a good many years. Should the child be forced to change? Should he be left alone?
Dr. Gertrude Hildreth, a university psychologist who has made an exhaustive study of left-handedness, believes that children are not born left-handed. At a fairly early age a child may show a preference for the right or left hand—but it is only a preference.

For this reason, Dr. Hildreth believes that it is important to begin training a child to use his right hand while he is in the crib-and-high-chair stage, before the preference becomes a deeply engrained habit, if you wish to train him at all. Here are a few ways this can be done:
Always place toys or silverware near his right hand—but never take them out of his left hand, once he has them there. Hanging rattles and other toys on the right side of the crib or carriage may encourage the baby to use his right hand. A toy watch or bracelet on the right wrist may draw attention to the right hand.
However, if the child persists in using the left hand he should be allowed to do so. Constant criticism may make him feel he is "different" and can lead to personality problems such as stuttering when he starts school.

BIG CORN CROP READY FOR HARVEST

The official crop report for September shows several things of special interest to farmers. A few of those that seem to be most important are listed:

First, the government estimated the corn crop at 3,216 million bushels. That was down only 4 percent from the official August estimate. Many "second guessers" had thought that the crop was cut by 10 percent during the past month, says L. H. Simerl, Department of Agricultural Economics, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Later official estimates this fall may be considerably lower yet than the September figure. Much will depend upon what farmers report after they have picked some of their corn.

The September 1 estimate for this year's corn crop, 3,216 million bushels, is 3 percent smaller than the crop reported for last year, but it is still 6 percent larger than the 10-year 1942-51 average. A crop of the size now estimated would provide about 200 million bushels more corn than will be needed for domestic use and export. If that much is added to the carry-over, it will total about 1,000 million bushels by October 1, 1954. That would be about one-fourth more than the expected carry-over October 1 this year.

This is a year of sharp contrasts in the corn belt. Drouth hit southern parts of it very hard, while northern areas generally had plenty of rain.

The dairy situation has changed from that of six months ago. Milk production in August was about 10.5 billion pounds. This rate of output is 1 percent below the 10 year average. Last winter milk production was up to 5 percent over the 10 year average. This year dry weather and poor pastures in many areas have cut production.

For soybeans, the latest government estimate puts the 1953 crop at 280 million bushels. This reflects a decline of 8 percent in 30 days. The September estimate is 7 percent under the 1952 crop.

The Illinois corn crop is now estimated at 500 million bushels. This estimate is 5 percent off the August 1 forecast and 3 percent smaller than the crop harvested last year.

The Iowa corn crop is now figured at 617 million bushels. This new estimate shows a decline of 7 1/2 percent from a month before, and it is 11 percent smaller than the crop raised last year.

While the corn crop was deteriorating in many central and southern parts of the corn belt, it was improving in most of the northern states. States showing improvement during August were Minnesota, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Ohio. Many would be crop forecasters overlooked this improvement.

In Indiana improvement in some areas in August apparently offset deterioration in other parts of the state.

Four important states on September 1 had a better corn crop than they had a year ago. The states with larger crops this year are South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Ohio. Altogether these four states have 58 million bushels more corn than they had last year.

Jaycees to Sell Lawn Signs to Aid Runyon Cancer Fund

The Illinois Junior Chamber of Commerce has announced a statewide program to aid the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund in its fight against the dreaded disease, cancer.

Each Jaycee organization in the State will sell reflectorized lawn signs with proceeds going to the fund named in honor of the famed writer who died from cancer.

The Illinois Jaycee program using the slogan "Lite a lawn, bring cancer out of the dark," will be the kickoff drive by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce in a nationwide movement to aid the cancer fight.

The official start of the nationwide campaign has been set for today, October 1. On that date and in the days following, Walter Winchell, Bob Hope, Bing Crosby and Arthur Godfrey will give recognition via radio and television to the Jaycees and their program.

The Illinois Jaycees will receive special recognition in the opening days of the campaign because their kickoff drive in the summer of 1952 resulted in the Illinois Jaycees, said the State organization is aiming for $30,000 goal for the cancer fund.

"Sale of the 'Lite a Lawn' signs is a very worthy program," King said, "because it not only aids the fight on cancer, but also helps the homeowned and the community."

These signs, providing individual visible at night street numbers, allow persons to readily find your home.

The signs were designed by a Jaycee and the Jaycees hold the patents for their manufacture and distribution. Made of non-rusting aluminum and green scotchlike numbers, they glow in the dark whenever a light is shined on them.

King said 8,000 Jaycees in 111 communities in Illinois will participate in the program. The signs sell for $3.00, and can be purchased from the Joliet Jaycees.

Big Dairy Show Scheduled for Chicago Oct. 10-17

Early entries from the continent's leading breeders of purebred dairy cattle indicate a huge showing of all the breeds at the first International Dairy Show, scheduled to open in Chicago, October 10 for an 8 day run through October 17.

It will be held in the spacious recently air-conditioned International Amphitheatre, one of country's largest and finest exhibition buildings which is also the home of the world-famed International Livestock Exposition.

The first entries, reported by the management, came from owners from the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and from Canada to compete for continental honors of the year and the $5000 in cash prizes that are offered in the competition for six breeds—Ayrshires, Brown Swiss, Guernseys, Holsteins, Jerseys, and Milking Shorthorns.

Officials of the show predict an entry of over 2000 head. There will also be classes for 4-H and F. F. A. members to exhibit animals of their own raising in all the breeds.

The new show will be under the same management as the 53 year old International Livestock Exposition, the nation's leading breeders of farm animals. The International Dairy Show, coming the week immediately following the National Dairy Cattle Congress in Waterloo, Iowa, will center attention of the nation's dairymen on the Midwest where these two national events will take place in consecutive weeks.

Officers of the International show report that there will be numerous industrial and educational exhibits in conjunction with the cattle displays that will high-light the nutritional and health values of milk and its products.

Spectacular entertainment in connection with the Chicago Dairy Show is assured in a big time rodeo competition in which cowhands of North and South America will compete for rich money prizes and points to determine international championships of the year in Bronco riding, calf roping, bull-dogging and Brahma bull riding contests.

Leo Cramer, Big Time, Montana-known throughout the west as "Mr. Rodeo," will produce the round-up. "Cowpokes who have been winning big money at the nation's important rodeos this year will all be here," said M. Cramer.

GALLINULES, COOTS, RAILS

Each spring and fall, thousands of Coots stop to rest and feed in the marshes and shallows of the Chicago region, or along the shores of Lake Michigan, and some nest here in summer. Great rafts of them may be seen: dark slate-gray birds, smaller than most ducks, with black heads and white pointed beaks. A coot's head bobs forward and back as it swims, like that of a chicken walking, and hence the common name "mudhen." They are less wary than ducks and drift casually away from an intruder but then seriously alarmed they skitter off, splashing and splashing the water with their wings and feet until air-borne.

The coot is the most aquatic member of its family, which includes the gallinules and rails. Its long toes, with sharp toe nails, have scalloped lobes which enable it to swim and dive like a duck but it can run quite rapidly on land. Coots are very noisy, gabbling all sorts of croaks, hoots, grunts and other queer sounds. All coots have a silly gawky expression and adult males have fiery red eyes. They are as good to eat as ducks and many are killed by hunters. They feed on small aquatic animals and underwater plants but are especially fond of chara or musk grass. By November, always migrating a night, they have departed for the Gulf Coast, the West Indies, Mexico or Central America.

The Florida Gallinule or Water Hen is found in freshwater marshes from California to Chile, and from Argentina to Maine, Ontario and Minnesota. Although more common in our southern states, a few nest here in Cook County and one was captured here on a high way, last summer, but they are more often heard than seen. They have a great variety of harsh fretful calls, the most common being four or five squaws followed by a series of clucks or abrupt froglike "kups." Gallinules do not gather in large flocks, like coots. Occasionally, one may be seen prowling among the cattails and sedges, with frequent jerks of its tail. Their large long-toed feet enable them to walk or run over the surface of the water on lily pads or other floating vegetation. The Florida gallinule resembles a coot but is easily distinguished by its well-tipped scarlet beak and the scarlet plate on its forehead. It swims with the same bobbing motion but with its tail up, showing its white underside. The back is brownish and the flanks are marked with white.

The purple gallinule is rarely found north of the tidewater marshes along our South Atlantic and Gulf coasts. Excepting only the male wood duck, it has the most elegant coloring of any waterfowl: purple head and neck, glossy green upper parts, a yellow-tipped carmine beak, a pale blue shield on its forehead, and long yellow legs.

The Rails are shy secretive birds that live along the shores of marshes but are rarely seen.

They have short rounded wings, long legs, and narrow bodies. If flushed, they weakly flutter a short distance, drop down, and scoot away thru the dense vegetation. It is difficult to believe that some kinds migrate to Bermuda, the West Indies, Central America, or as far as Brazil and Peru. Most species are especially noisy at dawn and dusk, with a variety of queer calls by which only an expert can identify them. Some sound like maniacs.

The King Rail, about 17 inches long, is largest. It is brownish, with a reddish-brown breast and a long curved bill. The Virginia Rail, very similar, has gray cheeks and is about 10 inches long. The Sora Rail, with a black face and short yellow bill, is a little smaller and most common. The little yellow rail and the black rail, a spotted mouse-like bird only six inches long, occur here but little is known about them.

We know a man, poor soul, who is as thin as a rail and as silly as a coot.

The above story about Coots, Gallinules and Rails was released by Roberts Mann, Supt. of Conservation and David H. Thompson, Senior naturalist of the Forest Preserve District of Cook County.

Duplicating America's costliest cars, feature after feature, Ford is worth more when you buy it ... worth more when you sell it!

A FEW MINUTES on the telephone calling the dealers who sell America's finest cars will reveal there are at least eleven models among four makes with price tags over $4,000!

Now the interesting thing is that in feature after feature the Ford car duplicates each of these fine cars, and for less than half the fine car price!

Look under the hood of the most expensive cars and what do you find?

A V-8 Engine!

Well, the Ford car has a V-8, too. In fact, it has had a V-8 since 1932, and since that time Ford has built more V-8's — by millions — than all other manufacturers combined. And there's no other builder in Ford's price range that's seen fit to offer one yet!

But the engine, as fine as it is, is only one of many things that make a fine car fine.

Automatic shifting, for example. All the fine cars offer it in one form or another because it's one of the things that make a fine car fine. But if you've never driven a Ford with Fordomatic you've missed one of the finer things of life. This amazing transmission not only does away with clutching and shifting forever — it gives you exactly the amount of power you want, when you want it — automatically.

Fine car power steering, too. The big, heavy costly cars offer it for the same reason they offer power brakes. It's a man-sized job for a 120 pound woman to handle a car weighing two tons or more without it — especially when parking. Our "Master-Guide" has two distinct benefits.

First, it gives a hydraulic power assist right down at the wheels and just enough to take out the work. You don't relinquish one particle of control — rather your control is more complete and far easier.

Second, being hydraulic, "Master-Guide" power steering absorbs those fatiguing steering wheel tremors caused by ruts and roads in bad repair. And you don't pay a fine car price for "Master-Guide."

But there is another fine car feature — the Ford ride. Books have been written on the subject of riding quality in an automobile, but the payoff comes on the pavement — or lack of it! Many people associate a comfortable ride with excess weight, but it's not weight alone that makes for comfort. If it were, those big five-ton trucks which you see every day would be the most comfortable vehicles on the road.

Without being technical we can tell you that what's been done with the suspension and springing system gives the Ford a softer ride, a smoother ride than many cars which tip the scales at better than an added half ton.

What about room? Here's an interesting point. If you've felt that only a costly car offered enough room, you just ought to sit down in a Ford even if you're out-size and six feet four! The so-called big car is bigger on the outside, but unless you buy a limousine with those little jump seats, it's not one passenger bigger inside.

Visibility is another fine car Ford feature. We say Ford cars offer "full-circle" visibility because they all have huge, curved one-piece windshields and a huge rear window to match ... plus side windows that mean every passenger gets room with a view!

How beautiful is a Ford? A great English poet, John Keats, once wrote "Beauty is Truth, Truth Beauty" — well, he could have been writing about our car for its beauty comes from honest, clean lines in every dimension. In fact, we think most people agree — even our competitors — that the appearance of a Ford Car leaves very little to be desired. It is "at home" wherever it goes and it goes everywhere.

But what about Ford quality? Does it too match the fine car? Is the sheet metal of the body panels as thick? Is the finish as good? How about the trim and things like that? Well, as far as we can determine, the sheet metal is identical in thickness in practically all instances. As to finish — we believe Ford's baked-on enamel has no equal in any car. Ford upholstery fabrics and trim are less costly, but they're less delicate, too, and if anything, more durable.

How then is it possible to give you this fine car at half the fine car price?

Part of the answer lies in Ford manufacturing skills and knowledge as evidenced by the V-8 engine. Part of it comes from the ever increasing numbers of cars Ford produces and the economies they make possible. And, part of it comes from Ford's willingness to give greater values than might be expected in cars selling in Ford's price range. And that's the Ford idea.

BABSON SAYS-

Copyright — 1953 — Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.
I have been rather disturbed to meet some old friends in Gloucester, Mass. who have lost their husbands and are disappointed with divided. The husband left no will, and the needy heirs did not get the money. It didn't seem quite fair to leave the same amount to a son who is in good financial condition as was left to a daughter who had had polio. I have already urged the necessity of everyone making a will under proper legal advice; but I now also urge the use of a local bank for Trust Funds.
Instead of leaving all or one-third of your estate to your wife outright, leave her portion in Trust with instructions to this effect: "My wife is to receive the income and also to receive some of the principal if, in the Bank's opinion, she at any time needs extra money." When she dies the Bank will distribute the remaining property to my children." Your wife would be of advanced age. She has never bought and sold securities, collected income from investments or filled out income tax returns. By such a Trust the property would be managed by an experienced Trustee. Your widow would then be happier and safer. When you die your widow will be pestered by people who want to borrow. Some of these may be relatives and friends who would be hard to turn down if the money is left outright. If, however, the money is left in Trust, she can honestly say to these people: "I am sorry, but all my money is in Trust, and I cannot do what you want." This may be a Godsend to her. If the relative or friend is really entitled to the money, there are other places to borrow.

Another reason for leaving property in Trust, especially for a married daughter, is to make sure that at her death, or in case of re-marriage, your grandchildren will someday receive the property. It is very hard for a young wife to refuse her husband if she has money in her own right; but if it is in Trust, her husband cannot lose it and yet would not be offended. Then you can be assured that your grandchildren will receive the property eventually, instead of, perhaps, some persons you have never known.

Your Will could direct that your daughter receive certain income for life, and at the daughter's death, after the children reach a certain age, the property be divided among your daughter's children. Or you may be the owner of a business which you would like to leave to a young son. If so, why don't you leave the business in Trust jointly with a bank and your son? The income could be payable to your wife for life, after paying a fair salary to your son and at her death, the business go to the son at a certain age. You of course, would give the two Trustees ample powers to meet all unforeseen changes that may arise.

The Federal estate tax can of ten be lessened by leaving property in Trust and eliminating a "second" tax. For instance, if you leave your entire estate outright to your wife and daughter the Federal estate tax at your death would be considerable and, if she dies more than five years later, leaving to a child all your property, her estate must pay a second Federal tax. This second tax could be avoided by leaving your property in Trust, without a "general power of appointment" with the income payable to your wife and/or daughter for life and then going to the grandchildren.

The above tax saving can also be accomplished by "splitting" your entire estate while living, or by leaving it so that only half would be taxed at your death, and the other half at your wife's or daughter's death. Then the Federal estate tax would be very much less. In this case instead of one Trust for your wife, there would be two. For one of these your wife could hold "a general power of appointment." Then only one of those Trusts would be taxed at her death—namely, the one as to which she held a "general power of appointment." The other Trust, though the property in it would be taxed at her husband's death, would escape tax at her death. In closing let me say I am not a lawyer. I got these general ideas from George L. White, Attorney for and Trust Officer of the Newton-Waltham Bank of Newton, Mass., with which bank I have formed Trusts for my wife, daughter and grandchildren.
